LOOKED LIKE A LIAR.

BUT THIS WAS A CASE WHERE LOOKS WERE MISLEADING.

A Little Irishman Who Claimed Acquaintance With a Champion Pugilist—His Employer, Who Was Used to the Gloves, Disputed the Claim.

"I was reading a clever little sketch the other day about a man who told big stories which were not believed by his acquaintances, and it reminded me of an experience I had once when I was considerably younger," remarked Robert D. Wilson, the active Orleans county politician, when in a reminiscent mood the other day.

"It was like this: About the first contract I ever took was one to build a church in a small town in western New York near Lake Ontario. My partner and I employed a good force of men, and among others a good natured, rather dapper little Irishman, who applied for work shortly after we got the walls started.

"He was not a skilled workman, but a good, active helper, and he struck me at the time as being one of the most entertaining and cheerful lads I had ever been my pleasure to meet. One of his favorite tales was to the effect that he was for three years trainer and boxing partner of the famous pugilist Jean Mace and had seconded the one time champion in two of his most notable battles. He rattled off names, places, dates and incidents in the most offhand manner imaginable, which, as we had no means of verifying his statements, he was perfectly safe in doing. Of course we took what he said with a large grain of salt and enjoyed drawing him out.

"One thing about the old fellow struck me as peculiar—we could never induce him under any consideration to join in any of the friendly little sparring contests which we occasionally indulged in at the little country hotel, after our day's work was done. By no subterfuge could we induce him to stick his hands in the big mittens, although he was always present at our exercises and took delight in making lightning comments upon our skill.

"This got rather monotonous after awhile, and we set about devising a plan for teaching the old fellow a lesson. When he was sober, we knew there was no chance of getting the gloves on him, but he usually got moderately full on Saturday evenings, and we concocted a scheme to give him an earlier start one Saturday afternoon, so that by the time supper was over he was considerably exhilarated. I was just out of a gymnasium at the time, and was considered a pretty clever boxer. The boys all went to work at him, and after a good many drinks and a lot of coaxing and cajoling they finally got him to put on the gloves and spar a bit with me.

"Sail on, Larry," I said. "Don't be afraid to hit me." And I winked at the boys and went at him. He was easier than I expected. His guard seemed very poor, and several times I reaped him harder than I should, but it seemed a good plan to touch the old blowhard a good lesson. After awhile I got a bit tired of the one-sidedness of it. I registered about every time I found an opening, while the Irishman's punches were all wild and of no account. Finally I decided that we had had fun enough and made up my mind to give him a good chuck in the eye, lay him out and quit. So I watched him a moment, and when I saw one minute later, I aimed a heavy blow at his forehead and let go.

"Well, say, I don't know even to this day what became of that punch, for at that moment something struck me on the neck, and for the next 30 seconds I experienced all of the sensations of Don Quixote when he had the mix up with the windmill, for that little Irishman was dancing around me and delivering underfoot, overhand, chin chop, side winder, earwig, straight drives and long arm body blow faster than I could feel them, while I panted the air in an attempt at defense.

"I think the boys said it was 43 seconds before I was lying in the corner, limp and entirely out, but it was three days before I was out at work again. I was sorry to find that the agile little Irishman had disappeared immediately after I dropped asleep. He evidently feared trouble, but I never would have made any. In fact, I'd have liked to take a few lessons from him, but I've never had the mitts on from that day to this.

"I don't know now whether that little Irishman was telling the truth or not, but I have my suspicions about the matter."—Medina (N. Y.) Cor. New York Press.

"Do you own your own home?" asked the passenger with the yellow diamond, who makes a business of selling real estate.

"I do every Thursday," said the other passenger.

"Eh—why?"

"I own it every Thursday. That's my day."—afternoon out—In an article in the Times.

THE pain that sometimes strikes a man at the most inopportune moment is due to indigestion. It may come in the midst of a dinner and make the feast a mockery. It is a reminder that he may not eat what he chooses, nor when he chooses. He is a slave to the weakness of his stomach. Frequently he doesn't even know whether the thing he eats is going to agree with him or not. The things that please his palate most are often the worst for him to eat. Even the simplest food is likely to cause him misery and sleeplessness. His first trouble was very slight—very simple—very easy to cure. He ate something indigestible and it stuck some place in his digestive system. He ate more things and they stuck. Part of his digestion stopped altogether—that is constipation.

Constipation is so common that more than half the people in America are troubled with it. It is so serious that nine-tenths of the sickness of the world is traceable directly to this common cause. A man's health and strength depend upon what he gets out of his food. This depends on his digestion. Constipation stops digestion. Anybody can see that. The commonest kind of common sense will tell you that. When digestion stops, nutrition stops, and the whole body is thrown out of order.

The way to start digestion is to remove the obstruction. The way to do that is to take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are a positive cure for constipation and its attendant ills—headaches, sour stomach, flatulence, dizziness, biliousness and "heartburn." They are very gentle in their action. They simply assist nature. They give no violent wrench to the system. They cause no pain, nor gripping, nor discomfort of any kind.

STATE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Third Day's Session—A Visit to the University and a Salute Fired in Honor of the Event.

In accordance with the arrangement of the day before the State Teachers' Institute met in Assembly Hall at the University yesterday morning. The roll was called at 9:15 A. M., and the departmental plan was followed. Following the opening exercises Hon. H. S. Starrett, one of the University Regents, addressed the Institute on "The Demands of the Country School and How to Meet Them." Mr. Starrett handled his subject well and gave much valuable information that was especially important to teachers in country districts.

Miss Ede of Winnemucca presented a paper on composition work. She spoke of the obstacles met with in this character of work, and thought that many of them were either imaginary or comparatively trivial and how nearly all of them could be avoided, or, if necessary to be met, could be overcome. A discussion followed, participated in by Mrs. Doten, Miss Ede and others.

Mr. E. A. Schulze of Reno gave a splendid talk on mechanical drawing, demonstrating his principal points with illustrations. He was listened to carefully, and his address was interesting and instructive.

A short recess was now taken.

After recess Dr. Miller gave a talk on physical signs of mental disorders in pupils. His address was a revelation to the teachers regarding the misjudging of pupils and the oftentimes excessive work put upon them. He suggested a number of tests by which such defects might be detected and the pupil handled accordingly. The teachers noted the doctor's remarks closely, and doubtless the children will be put to the various tests named in the next few weeks.

Professor Armstrong gave an address on writing. He went into the details of the science of penmanship and handled his subject like a master. Mr. Armstrong is an expert in his profession.

Miss Harper of Virginia read a paper on primary number work that was excellent.

At this point a recess was taken, during which the artillery company at the University fired ten guns in honor of the visiting teachers, and the cadet battalion gave an exhibition drill on the parade ground. The teachers also took the opportunity afforded to visit the University buildings and were very much pleased and many of them greatly surprised at the grandeur of this State educational institution.

Upon resuming Edwin L. Caine of Verdi read a paper upon the University influence direct and indirect upon the State. The speaker spoke earnestly of the great benefits of the University to the State, not only from an educational standpoint, but the good influence it has and the credit that it is to our commonwealth. From a financial standpoint a number of benefits to the State could be traced either directly or indirectly to the University. His paper was well written and well delivered.

Dr. Stubbs followed and outlined the policy of the University upon matters directly of interest to the teachers.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The afternoon session was held at the High School building. The first number on the program was music by Mrs. Layton and the High School pupils.

A paper on correlation and literature by Mrs. Doten, illustrated by an excellent class exercise on "The Talisman," by Scott, was an attractive feature of the program.

Professor Bray was suffering from hoarseness and was unable to deliver his address.

R. L. Fulton spoke on "An Historical Study."

Dr. Miller read a paper on "The Health of the School-room," and again startled the teachers with considerable information that many of them have little knowledge of.

Music was interspersed throughout the program by volunteers from the Reno Choral Society.

The quartette of male voices composed of Messrs. Cook, Loring, Gregory and Dr. P. T. Phillips was a feature of the day. A rousing encore was given and "The Old Kentucky Home" was excellently rendered. Miss Flo Layton officiated as pianist.

EVENING SESSION.

The teachers met in Assembly Hall at the University at an early hour in the evening. The hall had been prettily decorated by the young ladies of the Normal class, and as the large crowd gathered the scene presented would have been taken for an elaborate reception. The young ladies of the Normal Department were charmingly costumed and at their very best. An impromptu program of vocal and instrumental music was rendered, and President Stubbs, who was in his happiest mood, gave a pleasing address. The refreshments were served tele-a-lete and the evening ended in promenade and dancing. The reception was voted an immense success and the students of the Normal Department were highly complimented.

Governor Jones Very Low.

News was received yesterday that Governor Jones had another relapse and was very low. Night before last his physician was at his bedside all night, and yesterday other physicians were attending him. At last accounts he was sinking rapidly and fears were entertained that he was nearing the end. Let us hope that the reports of his condition are exaggerated, as they were before, and that he will astonish the physicians by recovering.

THE VAUGHAN TRIAL.

Nearing the End—Will Probably Be Submitted This Afternoon.

The District Courtroom was packed yesterday, so that standing room was at a premium. The State closed its side of the case early in the day, and the witnesses for the defense were immediately called.

The first witness was Charles Vaughan, the brother of the defendant, who witnessed the shooting. He detailed the circumstances of the murder really enough, but admitted that he had a strong interest in the defense of his brother. His evidence, of course, was very different from the other witness to the shooting, Nick Hart, and favored the defendant very much.

The defendant followed. He advanced to the witness stand calmly, spoke in a firm voice and seemed to take only an ordinary interest in the proceedings. It was evident from the question, put to him by his attorneys that any opportunity to cross-examine him on certain matters was to be avoided. He told his story of the shooting, and it differed materially from the evidence of his brother. He either does not realize the seriousness of his position or is perfectly unconcerned as to the result.

The afternoon was taken up with hearing the evidence of the father, mother and brothers of defendant.

Some rebuttal testimony was introduced and court adjourned. To-day will probably see the end. The arguments of the attorneys will be heard and the case submitted.

TABOR GRAND.

The Georgia Minstrels in Colorado.

The Georgia Minstrels drew to the Tabor last evening a large audience in the parquet and dress circle, but the upper part of the theater was packed. The time-honored minstrel olio was presented with many new songs, stories and jokes, and the whole went with great snap and spirit. Billy Kersands is the same old Billy of old. His songs and funny sayings seems to please everybody, but when he opened his large mouth the upper heavens simply howled with delight, for then they knew that he was the only and original Billy Kersands. The Crescent City Quartette rendered several selections in a very creditable manner. Gauze was at his best as the female impersonator. Mr. Walker has an excellent basso voice. The company contains several very clever artists, and the minstrel show is well worth going to see.—Denver News.

The Georgia minstrels will appear at McKissick's Opera House Saturday evening, April 11th.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

The Lodges of Virginia and Gold Hill Consolidated.

Nevada Lodge No. 1, Triumph No. 11 of Virginia and Harmony No. 13 of Gold Hill were consolidated on Tuesday evening under the name of Nevada Lodge No. 1. Grand Chancellor N. A. Hummel officiated and after the consolidation ceremonies had been concluded he exemplified the secret work. The lodge was then declared in open session and the Rathbone Sisters were admitted. Past Grand Chancellor Huffaker assumed charge and a splendid literary and musical program was rendered. Following this a sumptuous banquet was served after which Grand Chancellor Hummel addressed the gathering in his usual happy way.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her, and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida St. San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching consumption, tried without result everything else, then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this remedy for coughs and colds. Free trial bottles at Hodgkinson's Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.

Old People.

Old people who require medicine to regulate the bowels and kidneys, will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whisky nor other intoxicant, but acts as a tonic and alterative. It acts mildly on the stomach and bowels, adding strength and giving tone to the organs, thereby aiding nature in the performance of the functions. Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old people find it just exactly what they need. Price 50c. per bottle at Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

Drowned.

A sad accident occurred at Clark's Station yesterday afternoon by which the little three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hill was drowned. It seems that the boy was playing near a ditch about one hundred yards from his home and in some way fell into the water. When found life was extinct. The funeral will be announced later.

BREVITIES.

General Clarke arrived from Carson yesterday on professional business.

Dr. Shanks and family of the northern country arrived on the N-C-O last evening and continued west.

The hop at the Hotel Reno to-night will be an enjoyable affair. It is given by the management in honor of the visiting teachers and guests of the house.

Harry Brule and Arthur McCabe, Carson; Geo. Fourt, City; W. C. Teede, Racine, Wis., and P. Norton, Wells, Nev., were arrivals at the Hotel Reno last evening.

L. D. Folsom has just received the finest assortment of fancy and plain crackers ever brought to town. The cases were warm when they arrived here, showing that the crackers had just been packed from the oven.

Dr. Joseph Thomas, a dentist, committed suicide in Virginia City yesterday by taking carbolic acid. He was a member of the National Guard and Knights of Honor. He was a native of Grass Valley, California, and 25 years of age. His mother and a sister and brother reside in Virginia City.

The Supreme Court of Massachusetts has decided that a school teacher has no right to require a scholar to tell tales on a companion. Such a decision is certainly in the interest of honor and morality, whatever the teachers who try to promote treachery among their pupils may think about it.

W. E. Chesley, representing the Rambler bicycles, is here with his samples and can be seen at the store of E. C. Harris, the local agent. Mr. Chesley has samples of the "Ideal," a $75 wheel, admitted to be the best in the market for the price. Call and examine the wheels. Mr. Harris will explain all their mechanical points.

Joseph Douglass Sued.

Con Ahern, the well known proprietor of the Crystal Saloon in Virginia has sued Joseph Douglass for $25,000 damages, claiming to have received great bodily injury from a knife in the hands of Douglass while the later was intoxicated. From what can be learned Douglass was in Ahern's saloon on the morning of the 13th of March and had ordered drinks, and when served, without warning, he assaulted Ahern, stabbing him in the thigh near the groin. For some reason Mr. Ahern kept the matter quiet and hobbled about, telling inquirers that he was suffering from rheumatism. Report has it that he came within an ace of losing his life. Mr. Douglass is one of the wealthiest men in the State, and just why he should escape criminal prosecution for the assault is not explained.

BOMBHELL'S BRAVE DEED.

The Dog Saved Two Little Children From Serious Danger.

While a gun was being loaded Bombshell would sit on the parapet and watch the operation. That finished, he would jump up and look out to see over the range and then scamper down from the parapet and follow us into the bomb-proof.

As usual, Bombshell was on hand to see the test of the new big gun. He supervised the loading, and while I was aiming the gun he looked over the range as carefully as did the lieutenant, and from his air of responsibility one might have supposed that to him had been entrusted the duty of seeing that the range was clear.

"But when we started for the bomb-proof, instead of following us, as was his custom, Bombshell remained on the parapet, looking out to sea and sniffing the air. In a moment he dashed off through the bushes which covered the narrow beach between the parapet and the sea.

Though thinking his actions peculiar, I was sure that he would not remain in front of the gun because he had done so once when quite young and inexperienced, and the burning grains of powder, which are always thrown out by the blast of a gun, had burned himself in his skin, burning him badly. He had never forgotten this.

Certain that he would take care of himself, I paid no further attention to him, but went with the others into the bomb-proof and took my place by the electric key ready to fire at the command of the captain.

Just as the command "Fire!" was about to be given Bombshell reappeared on the parapet and began to bark furiously into the very muzzle of the gun. I called to him, but he would not come. Annoyed at the delay of the test, I tried to catch him, but could not do so. As I approached he retreated, still barking and apparently urging me to follow him.

Finally, convinced from the dog's actions that something was wrong, the electric wire was disconnected from the gun, and I followed Bombshell. Wagging his tail with joy at having accomplished his object, he led me through the underbrush to the beach.

There, concealed behind a clump of bushes, were two little children quietly digging in the sand and entirely unconscious of the danger in which they had been.—Lieutenant John C. W. Brooks in St. Nicholas.
